Find Me

Flood of '85

The "Flood of 1985" is now a part of history but the campus will always remember that late night and early morning when the waters started to rise and overflow their banks. The flood brought the campus together as they helped students move from Camden Apartments, housed Holloway students, removed personal items from the KA house and cleaned up the town. However, the greatest effort was seen as many students pledged their money and time to Jerry Wood and the chapel as they helped Buckhannon residents clean their homes, remove damaged items and get their lives back to some semblance of normality. Fortunately for us, Buckhannon has been able to pick up the pieces. Unfortunately for many other towns in West Virginia, normality is not even in the near future. However, everyone hopes that history will not repeat itself.

Jimmy Carter Visits Wesleyan

On November 11, 1985, Wesleyan had the pleasure of being visited by President Jimmy Carter. After arriving on campus, a banquet was held in his honor with the Mason Crickard scholars in the top of the SCOW. He then spoke to an excited audience in the chapel. He spoke about world peace. Students had the opportunity to present questions to be answered by President Carter. These were read by Dean Welliver. Everyone enjoyed having his question answered by such a prominent person. Community Council president Rob Bytheway presented Carter with the title of "Honorary Bobcat" and gave him a plaque and a WVWC Bobcat sweatshirt. Everyone was thrilled to have such an important person visit their campus and town.

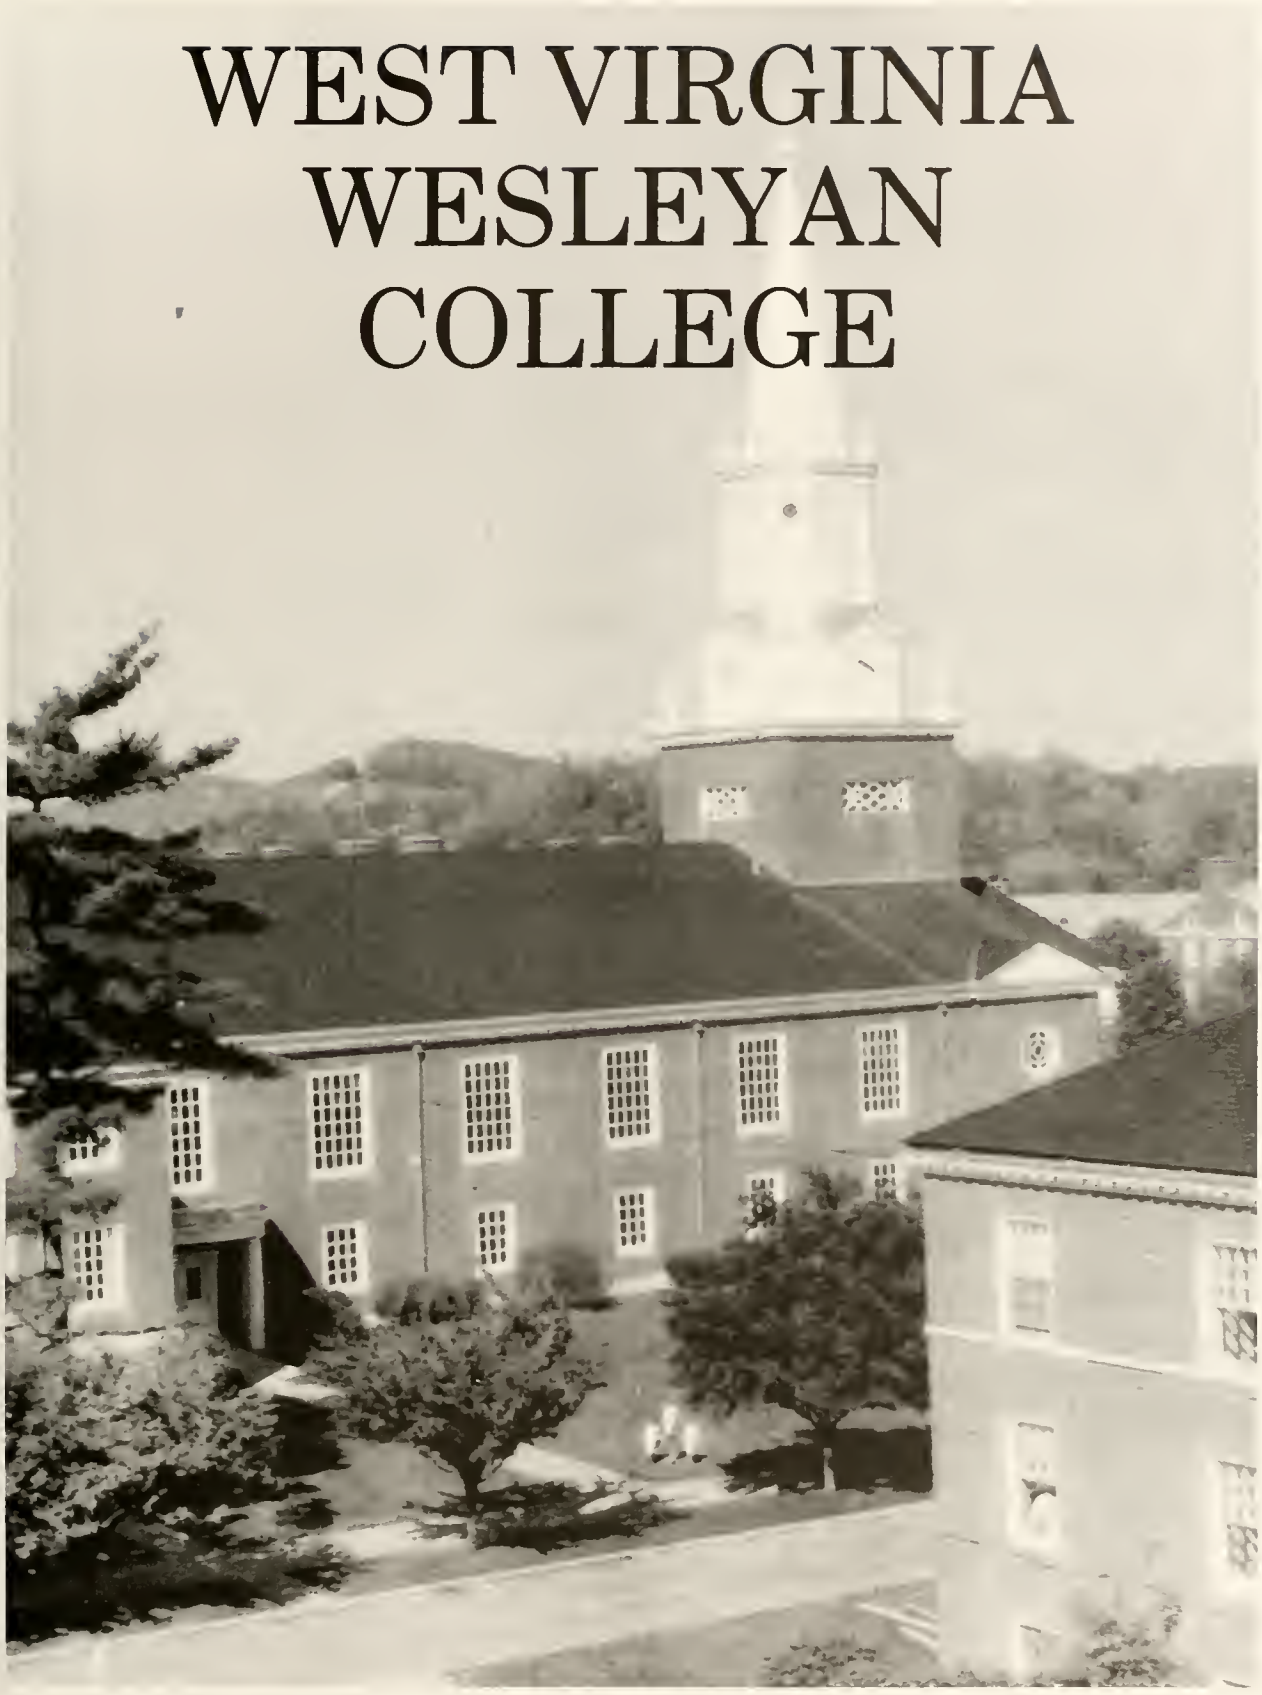
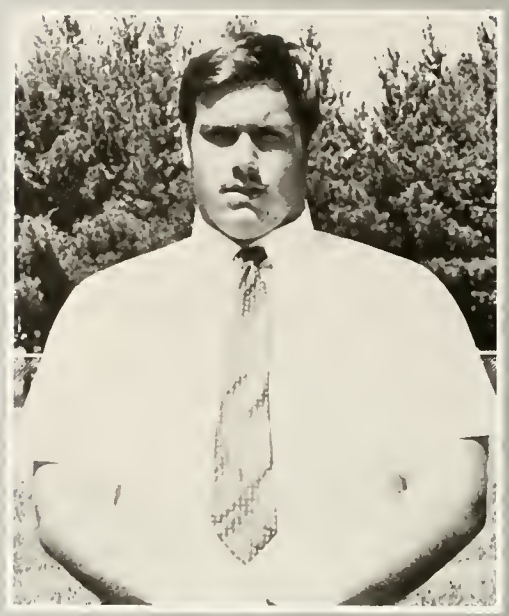
WEST VIRGINIA WESLEYAN COLLEGE



In Memory of Kurt Rataiczak



On tip-toe comes the gentle dark
To help the children sleep
And silently, in silver paths
The slumber fairies creep.
Then overhead, God sees that all
His candles are a light,
And reaching loving arms to us
He bids his world good night.

FRESHMAN

It's the end of August and the beginning of college. Freshman orientation helped organize our rooms and classes, and our lives. There were helpful assistants to hand out keys, give directions, answer questions of all kinds and even move the necessary equipment into our rooms.

Once settled in our rooms with roommates and things reasonably arranged, we explored the campus, met with faculty and administration, met in our CORE groups to formulate schedules and meet fellow freshmen. By this time we were ready for parents to go home and the rest of the campus to move in. With new-found friends we were ready to meet the upper class students.

ORIENTATION

Moving in is easier when everyone gets into the act. Orientation leaders helped carry luggage, stereos, stuffed animals, personal computers and refrigerators to freshmen rooms to begin the transition from home to residence halls. The biggest question of the day is will it all fit in this room? and what about the roommate's gear, once she gets here? Somehow, it works out in the end.

The Parent-Student Convocation on Saturday evening was well attended by weary, anxious families whose nerves were calmed by helpful administration representatives and CORE group leaders who assisted the new students for the remainder of the orientation process. A serious, but also somewhat comic rendition of the Alma Mater, was presented by Larry Parsons and some members of the concert chorale.

Above: A necessary carpet makes its way to Agnes Howard Hall to insure warm feet on those cold winter nights. Left: Better wait, Mom. I'll make sure this all fits before you leave with the van.

HOMECOMING '85

The theme for Wesleyan's Homecoming this year was Theater Through the Years. Greek organizations and various clubs on campus undertook the task of building appropriate floats for the parade. These were sometimes completed early the morning of the parade. At halftime during the football game the winners of the float and banner competition are announced. The coronation ceremony took place Friday night in a filled chapel. This year, Nancy Childers was named Homecoming Queen as past queen gave over the robe and crown. This time of year brings many parents and alumni to the campus. Everyone enjoys the action-packed weekend.

Left: Phi Sigma Epsilon ready their "Man of LaMancha" float before the judges come around to examine the floats. Below: Some of the college administration participate in the Homecoming parade with their families.

NURSE'S CAPPING

CHRISTMAS ON CAMPUS

The second annual Christmas on Campus took place this year. The invitations were sent out to area children. The guides and helpers were geared up as the groups set up their activity. Finally, the children arrived. The guides took their group of children to all the activities which included crafts, cookie painting, Christmas drawing, story time and many more. The day was ended with Christmas carolling around the tree in the top of the Scow. Of course, Santa Claus was there to bid everyone a "Merry Christmas to all, and to all a Goodnight." The day prompted everyone to get into the Christmas spirit.

HANGING OF THE GREENS

The making of the pine boughs and hanging them to decorate Wesley Chapel has been a long-standing tradition on campus. Hours of labor are involved in gathering the greens and assembling the huge boughs. Then, they must be secured in the chapel in time for the Festival of Lessons and Carols, a celebration of the Christmas season.

Right. Same Chi Phi brothers work among pine sap and Christmas carols to assemble one of the many boughs to decorate the chapel. Below. Two more fraternity brothers work to secure the greens in the chapel. An all-day project — a Christmas joy to have accomplished

FESTIVAL OF LESSONS & CAROLS

Amid the smell of pine and candles burning, and as part of the celebration of the coming of the Christmas season, the Wesleyan community gathers in the chapel to hear lessons and carols of the season. Faculty, administration and students all participate in an evening of music and scripture in preparation for the joyous season.

Directed by Larry R. Parsons, the Wesleyan Concert Chorale leads familiar carols and traditional Christmas music during the Festival of Lessons and Carols.

Spring Sing is the annual singing competition between Greek groups on campus. Also included in the competition are one male and one female independent group. The theme of this years sing was the British Are Coming. The winner for the men's division was Phi Sigma Epsilon; for the women's division was the independent group. Everyone involved enjoys this time of year.

BACCALAUREATE

Final Exams are over — whew! Now graduating seniors prepare for an eventful and meaningful last weekend on campus. Faculty, administration and graduating seniors are led into Wesley Chapel in Academic Regalia and participate in the Baccalaureate service. This year's sermon is delivered by Bishop Neil Irons from the New Jersey area of the United Methodist Church.

Seniors are commissioned to go forth into the world taking a rich heritage in "love of learning, devotion to truth, and concern for people."

AWARD ASSEMBLY

Every year the awards and elections committee evaluate qualifications and grade point averages, activities and accomplishments to aid in the distribution of awards for academic achievement as well as athletic accomplishments. In May, the campus community gathers to recognize and applaud its Award Recipients. Outstanding seniors are recognized as well as Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and a host of scholarship and award recipients.

PINNING CEREMONY

For the student nurses at Wesleyan, the Pinning Ceremony is as exciting and thrilling an event as commencement is for all graduating seniors. The ceremony brings to a close four years of hard work — studying, waking up early and going to bed late and building lasting friendships during the road to a B.S. in Nursing and the nurse's pin. In special recognition of the graduating nursing class the ceremony includes music, roses and special memories for the 1986 nursing class, a dedicated, close-knit group who go forth into the world of nursing well prepared and well recognized for the accomplishments here at Wesleyan.

GRADUATION . . .

No one seemed to mind the 80 degree heat, sun melting cap and gown as they awaited their final march down Senior Walk into the gym for Wesleyan's 96th Commencement on May 18, 1986. Spirits were not wilted as "Pomp and Circumstance" was provided by the Wesleyan Concert Band. The gym was cool and anticipation high. The culmination of years of hard work and sleepless nights, cafeteria food and evenings in the library all resulted in celebration and lasting friendships. Good work! Good luck! Goodbye . . . for now!

The brothers of Theta Xi fraternity had an active and productive year on the Wesleyan campus. Some of Theta Xi's accomplishments include placing third in the annual Spring Sing competition and second in Greek Week. The fraternity was also the proud recipient of the prestigious President's Cup, given each year to the fraternity who excels in athletics, scholarship, Homecoming float, campus and community service and Greek Week competition. Other activities which Theta Xi participated in include intramural football, volleyball, basketball and softball, various service projects, parties and formals.

GREEK WEEK

This year's Greek Week was as successful as all past years. Greek Week consists of fraternities battling fraternities and sororities against sororities in many events. These events include such activities as track events, jello eating, bed, bike, and boat races, volleyball, tennis, bowling, jacks, egg toss, and water polo to name a few. This week long activity is enjoyed by both participants and observers as it brings groups closer together. This year's winners for fraternities was Kappa Alpha and for sororities was Alpha Delta Pi.

ENTERTAINMENT

While Apple Blossoms Whisper In the Breeze

FALL ENTERTAINMENT

Wesleyan's Fall season of entertainment included a star-studded cast of comedians, entertainers, magicians, singers, and other top acts. The fall entertainment was debuted by comedians Steve Gipson and Tom Deluca.

On August 31, Steve Gipson entertained us with a combination of cartoons and zany comedy in which the audience gained insight into his unique, comical perspective of life.

Another fine gentleman by the name of Tom Deluca appeared on stage September 4, to share his own brand of comedy with the campus. On September 6, Wesleyan danced in the library parking lot to the top 40 music of the Voltage Brothers. Two popular Chicago comedians named Tim Cavanaugh and Taylor Mason combined their talents on the 13th of September, to create an evening of comedy and laughter. Tim was a bizarre, but entertaining man, while Taylor combined his talents of comedy, music, and ventriloquism into an amusing act. Closing the month of September was the duo of Smith and Mayer who played top 40 music to an enthusiastic crowd in the Social Hall.

October's entertainment opened with the mystifying magical act of Denny and Lee. The audience was shocked by Denny's disappearing assistant Lee, her eventual reappearance, and her levitation later in the show. Highlighting the evening was Denny's final stunt of catching a speeding bullet (fired from a rifle) in his mouth.

A week later the Romantics appeared before a small, but enthusiastic crowd in Rockerfeller Center. They played many of their hits including their current hit single "Test of Time" which is on their new album Rhythm Romance.

Gamblers of high risk bet against the odds October 12, when Wesleyan held Casino Night/Night at the Races in the Social Hall. The casino included games of Pokerino, Blackjack, Roulette, plus nine other money tables. Prizes donated by local merchants were awarded to the top three money winners in both the Wesleyan Downs Racetrack and Casino.

Celebrating Homecoming week, the Campus Activities Board welcomed two individuals to the stage. On October 18, comedian Andy Andrews appeared in the Social Hall, and on the 19th, singer Dan Seals from England Dan and John Ford Coley performed. October entertainment was concluded with the smooth and mellow night club singer Tina Fabrique, who was backed by a four piece band. The show combined top 40, Blues Jazz, show tunes and Jazz music into a romantic evening.

A Halloween Dance topped of the entertainment schedule on the first of November. On November 9, the talented singers of Regency returned to Wesleyan for the second consecutive year bringing their enthusiastic and energetic show. Just prior to Thanksgiving break, Comedian Jeff Cesario gave the audience arousing laughter to take on the trip back home.

The finale for fall '85 was on December 6, when the Campus Activities Board sponsored a Wintergreen Semi-Formal dance in the Social Hall. People danced to music by DJ Kathy Donnelly, couples snuggled and kept warm by the fireplace, and others became lost in Wesleyan's own "Winter Wonderland."

JAN-TERM

J-Term was packed full of action and provided everyone with an opportunity for a change of pace. Highlighting the J-Term session was illusionist Craig Karges who entertained the audience with a bag-full-of-tricks, illusions, and comedy. The popular Air Band competition occurred on the 24th to a packed crowd in the Social Hall, and during the long, cold, winter month a Beach Party Dance was held to shake off the winter blues.

To complete the J-Term session, intermural sports ranging from archery to Raquetball assisted individuals in staying healthy, active, and competitive.

W.V.W.C. THEATER PRESENTS

The Imaginary Invalid

On November 14-16, 1985, the Wesleyan theater presented Moliere's Imaginary Invalid. In this satirical comedy, Argan, played by Jonathan Carver, uses his imaginary illnesses to his advantage. He tries to get his daughter, Angelique, played by Cindy Kingerski, to marry a doctor so there will be a doctor in the house. However, Angelique only has eyes for Oleante, played by Kelly McQuain. Argan even fakes death but this only proves the greed of his wife, portrayed by Mary Wall. The amusing play was enjoyed by all who attended it.

The Glass Menagerie

Tennessee William's The Glass Menagerie was presented on March 6-8 by the Wesleyan theater. This play depicts the life of a small family in the 1930's. Amanda, played by Azareen Zavareei, is an incurable romantic who lives by the illusions of her youth when she was the belle of the south. She has been deserted by her husband and lives now only for her children. However, she has crushed her daughter and alienated her son. Laura, her daughter is portrayed by Mary Ann Palladino. She is a cripple and abnormally shy. Because of her shyness, she takes refuge in her glass menagerie, a collection of small glass animals. Tom, the son is played by Bill Campbell. The whole story is seen through his memory. This was a very entertaining play.

AIRBAND 1986

Airband was once again enjoyed by a gym full of excited people. This years winner was KISS (opposite page, top). Also participating in this years competition was Busdriver, Sheila E., Bruce Springstein, Bad Boys, Cameo, ZZ Top, Roger Palmer, Whitney Houston, and INXS. Everyone always enjoys Airband and this year was no exception.

SPRING ENTERTAINMENT

This spring brought many exciting entertainers to the campus. Comedian David Naster performed in the SCOW. Also performing in the SCOW was a dinner theater group with "Twice Around the Park." Everyone enjoyed the annual Student/Faculty Talent Night. Finally, the Washington Ballet brought their show to Atkinson Auditorium.

STUDENT LIFE

And There is Music in the Flashing Streams

Labs

Most students spend some of their time in labs; some more so than others. Students majoring in computer science, biology, chemistry, nursing, nutrition, and engineering spend countless hours in labs, learning the practical application of the skills and techniques taught in the classroom. For those students, it is not unfamiliar to slave over a program that just does not work or to continually repeat an experiment to get the desired result. It is easy to understand why labs are not met with enthusiastic responses.

Top: Hey Flo, have you gone cuckoo or what? Right: Paula, feed Kimby the rat! Bottom: Smiling faces? It must be close to quitting time!

But time spent in labs is not always tiresome. For many students it is a hands on experience in the field of their chosen career. Computer science majors are given the opportunity to acquire first hand knowledge in the field of programming, while psychology majors can learn the principles taught by B. F. Skinner by conditioning their own rat.

Dine Out Lately?

Who will ever forget dining at Aladdin? In spite of the cafeteria's face lift, the food remained the same. However, there is one meal that is well attended by most of the student body — a "special dinner." A special dinner might consist of a Hawaiian affair complete with dancing girls in grass skirts and tropical fruit from all over the world, or it might simply consist of grilled steak decorated with all the trimmings. Whatever the case, if Aladdin doesn't offer the food you like, some fine dining establishment in Buckhannon does.

OUTDOOR LIFE

West Virginia Wesleyan is noted for its picturesque and attractive campus. Returning students are greeted by the hot, humid days of summer which gradually change into the warm inviting days of fall. Many students find the beginning of the semester the ideal time to show off their summer tans by playing soccer in the oval, hackeysack in Jenkin's lawn, or laying out in front of Benedum. Whatever the case, everyone wants to be outside to enjoy the weather and scenery.

As the semester progresses, the warm cheerful days of fall quickly change to the cold, harsh days of winter. Although the temperatures may dip below freezing, the scenery and winter fun created by the newly fallen snow is a sight to behold. But all too soon the sun begins to melt the snow, ushering in the invigorating days of spring. The trees and flowers blossom, and the birds return making spring the most spectacular season on campus. However, it wouldn't be fair not to mention the dark clouds of rain that visit the campus during this time. But once again the seasons change and summer returns to Wesleyan campus again.

S C O W

Ask any student where the Benedum Campus Community Center of Wesleyan is located and you will probably be answered with a confused look. But ask anyone how to reach the Scow and you will be directed on your way. The Scow is the center of campus activity. Housing the most popular area on campus, the post office, the Scow also contains the college book store, gameroom, bowling alley, and pool. Not only does the Scow provide means of entertainment, but it also contains study areas, the college radio station, the Murmurmontis and Pharos offices, and Wesleyan's own fast food restaurant the "Top of the Scow." But more importantly, the Scow is a place where students can socialize and pass the time of day.

The majority of Wesleyan students live in residence halls; more commonly known as dorms. A dorm room is a unique use of space. Serving a wide variety of purposes from sleeping and studying to soap opera watching and partying, a dorm room is a student's home away from home. The first appearance of this new living space can be quite a shock, but after several weeks the room begins to look like home . . . well almost.

Study Hard!

We all know that studying is not a student's favorite pastime. It's always interesting to see how students rationalize not studying. Of course there is always the argument that finals are not until the end of the semester! And then there is the argument that you'll study for the next test. But the best reason for not studying is Audra!!!

But the avoidance of work has repercussions such as the dreaded failing grade, midterms, and last, but certainly not least, parents! So in order to avoid these hassles, even the most apathetic student occasionally opens a book or two.

Finals! Finals are the most dreaded part of a student's college career. Lasting for approximately two intense hours, most exams cover material taught throughout the entire semester. Final's week is the most exhausting time for students. Caffeine and two hours of sleep is the combination that gets some students through the week.

All the postponed studying from the semester catches up with the unprepared student. It is this student that burns the midnight wax at 3:00 a.m. and realizes that even if they stay up all night they'll never know all the information! But in spite of all the tension and exhaustion associated with finals, who will ever forget the feeling of exhilaration when you finish your last final which marks the beginning of Summer Break?!!

Rockefeller Gym

The physical fitness craze has swept the nation and what is a better place to see people exercising than Rockefeller Gym? Not only do people attend aerobic classes, jog, and weightlift, but they also participate in racketball, basketball, and soccer games. But even those who are not athletically inclined can act as spectators at the various sports games. So whether you want to get physical or merely observe, Rockefeller Gym is the place for you!

They did it again! West Virginia Wesleyan's very own soccer team won the National Championship for the second straight year. This occurred during the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Soccer Championship games held November 25, 1985 to December 2, 1985 in Spartansburg, North Carolina.

The Bobcats won the title of National Champions after beating Fresno Pacific 4-3 in a sudden death overtime period. This somewhat mirrors last year's tournament when Wesleyan won the National title by beating Fresno Pacific 3-2 in sudden death overtime in Fresno, California.

The team had a 14-3-1 season before they entered the District 28 Playoffs. This put them in first place in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WVIAC). It was then off to the District and Area Playoffs and then the National Tournament.

Congratulation Bobcats!

Laughter Through the Happy Valleys
Of My Home Among the Hills

"My Home Among the Hills" by E. W. (Bill) James

There is a land of rolling mountains where the skies are blue above and though I may roam, I hurry home to the friendly hills I love. Where the moonlit meadows ring with a call to whippoorwills always you will find me in my home among the hills. And where the sun draws rainbows in the mist of waterfalls and mountain rills. My heart will be always in the West Virginia hills. There autumn hillsides are bright with scarlet trees and in the spring, robins sing while apple blossoms whisper in the breeze and there is music in the flashing streams and joy in fields of daffodils laughter through the happy valleys of my home among the hills.

When I first took the job of editor, I knew it would be hard work. I also started to think about what I would write on this page. First, I would like to thank all of the members who remained on the staff until the end. Secondly, I would like to thank the people who worked over the summer to get the sections done of those who left the staff (especially Margo, Andy, Nancy, Alan, and Lisa). I would also like to thank Ron Richardson, of Taylor Publishing Company, and Davor Photography, Inc. for answering all of my many, many questions. I would also like to thank our two advisors, Mike Forinash and Dean Ruhlow. The last person I would like to thank is E. W. (Bill) James, author of "My Home Among the Hills", for allowing us to use his great song as the theme for this book.

When the staff was looking for a theme for the book, we wanted something that would fit the image of Wesleyan and the area around Wesleyan. That is when we decided upon "My Home Among the Hills". To me, this song paints a picture of the area around Wesleyan and shows everyone who reads this book the life at and around Wesleyan.

In conclusion, but certainly not least, I would like to thank my assistant editor and fiancée for all the work she did over the year and all the long hours she spent over the summer. I would also like to thank her for being there when I needed her and for putting up with me both while I was and was not working on this book.

Again, I would like to thank everyone who helped me this past year and I would like to wish all the best to the class of 1986.
